A idéia básica que permeia Redes e cidades é fornecer amplo e generalizado quadro sobre o conceito de rede geográfica, cuja materialização e expressão mais completa é a rede urbana, tanto do ponto de vista histórico, como esta vai se organizando, historicamente, no caso brasileiro, em relação à rede de internet, expressão mais disseminada da articulação entre as novas tecnologias de informação e o cotidiano de pessoas e empresas, sem se esquecer do cotidiano do poder político, constituído pelos governos que regulam e regulamentam as relações sociais de produção. O panorama apresentado não tem, como objetivo, esgotar as análises sobre a temática mas, sobretudo, articular as características mais evidentes da rede urbana com as características das cidades em rede, com destaque para as metrópoles, salientando como exemplo São Paulo e alguns aspectos da rede urbana brasileira.
